

WELLSPRINGS

Are you worried about loved ones using substances?

It can be unsettling when we're worried about someone else and not sure what to do. Join us for a conversation to share concerns and experiences.

Witnessing someone we care about abuse substances or have a substance dependence can be alarming. We can feel helpless, unsure what to do, and have a hard time managing our thoughts and feelings.

Join us for a conversation, led by a Spring Health provider, to talk about it and connect with others who are going through similar experiences.
